TOWN WHERE WOMEN VOTE GOES UNDER THE HAMMER.

Equal Suffrage Was a "Hoodoo" for Lincoln, N. J. - The Once-Thriving Settlement Will Be Disposed of Entirely at Auction.

red flag flies over Lincoln. pretty town in a growing section of Middlesex County, New Jersey. The entire town will be sold under the hammer, without reservation, by Fred C. Wolbert, of Jersey City, on

Too much female suffrage was Lincoln's undoing. The town was founded by a real-estate syndicate and it re-sponded nobly to booming methods.

by a real-estate syndicate and it responded nobly to booming methods. It was sewered and paved and laid out in streets that were given the names of distinguished statesmen and warriors. Houses sprung up along Grant avenue, Serman avenue, Lincoln avenue and McKinley Boulevard. There was macadam on the roadways and the trolley winsked the commuters to and from the Jersey Central and the Lehigh Valley stations.

Fronerty grew in value. Investment was lively and the promoters saw great profits in sight until the women of the community got an idea that all Lincoln needed to make it the lovellest place on the map was woman suffrage. Lincoln was essentially a bown of home-loving folks, and when there were enough inhabitants to organize a city government they consulted their wives about the matter. That's where they put their feet in it, in the light of subsequent events. As long as the women were consulted they concluded they might as well take a hand in running things. Lincoln was not an incorporated town, so there was no law to prevent them holding office. Old "Si" Drake, a civil war veteran, took up the cause of the ladles energetically, and as his reward they talked their husbands into selecting him to run for Mayor.

Then it was arranged that there should be two women and four men in the Town Council. Miss Emma Egel and Mrs. Clivia Hazard were the female officials chosen. But two of the men selected resigned rather than serve with women, and at a special election Miss Mattie Moore and T. W. Sheldon were course the ladies were delighted at their privilege of exercising the franchise. All this was three years ago.

Of course, the women of the Council wouldn't hear of a saloon in the town, and this got some of the men mad. Then things naturally drifted into a split. Finally "Si" Drake and his women office-holders were ousted, and it was they who petitioned to have the town put into the hands of a receiver.

The auotion results under forelosure proceedings against the New Jersey Realty Company. A church, the village schoolhouse, many residences and 1,500 lots will be disposed of under the hammer. From now until the date of the auction every site to be sold is decorated with a red flag.

THE PRETTY SHIRTWAIST CIRL DANGLES HEARTS AT HER CIRDLE.

Here Now Is a Chance for Her Admirers to Show Their Appreciation of the Charming Creature.

The pretty shirt-waist girl has three soiled months of conquest ahead of her. The prettier the girl and the prettier her collection of shirt waists, the more hearts she may string from her dainty girdle. Do you want to help on this work of destruction? Who is the prettiest shirt-waist girl you know? Write her name and address on the accompanying ballot and send it in to the Evening World. There will doubtless be a number of admirers who will agree the soiled to "Shirt-Waist Girl Editor. Evening World. Post-Office Box 235i New York City."

The matter will be brought to the attention of the moneyed Irishmen in New York and a meeting will soon be held to take steps to secure possession of the property. The islands will be named Ulster, Leinster, Munster and Connaught, and the lineal descendants of the old Irish Kings will be given jobs again in the ruling business.

Mr. O'Donaghue does not tell where the islands are located, but says that they are in a temperate clime.

DESMOND ACTS LIKE A MANIAC.

Detective Who Killed Bath Beach Man in Straitjacket.

Timothy J. Desmond, the slayer of John McMullin, has become so violent it has become necessary to place him in a straitjacket. Desmond on Saturday tried to kill himself by diving head first from his cot to the floor of the cell in which he is confined in Raymond Street Jail, Brooklyn. His head struck the stone floor with great vioence and he was rendered unconscious Desmend was a detective, stationed at Bath Beach. He shot McMullin on night in December last, claiming that McMullin had torn his shield from him and he was in danger of his life. He was indicted for murder in the first degree. While awaiting trial he dove from the first gallery of the Raymond Street Jail to the floor below in an attempt at suicide. His injuries were not serious.

A month ago he was tried for murder and found guilty of manslaughter in the first degree, the jury recommending mercy. A question as to his sand arose, and Judge Aspinall appointed commission in lunacy, consisting of physician, a lawyer, and a layman, examine him. This commission has no examine min. This commission has not as yet submitted its report.

If Desmond is found to be insane he will be sent to the Matteawan Asylum for the Criminal insane. If not, he will be sentenced to Sing Sing for some period between ten and twenty years.
